

29th March, 1972.

Mr. Joseph Levine,
Dorchester Hotel,
Park Lane,
London, W.1.

Dear Joe,

It is great to be mates again!

I really did enjoy myself with the plum cake, finger sandwiches and sausages and you were in great form.

I am sorry we were not able to conclude a deal on "SOMETHING TO HIDE", but I think we understand each other's position in the matter. However, if we can work out something on the United Kingdom, I am sure that will be fine for us both.

One final word: I was not kidding when I said I was the best producer in England. It happens to be true and I am enclosing the scripts of "SHOUT AT THE DEVIL" and "GOLDMINE" (both from Wilbur Smith's books) for your earnest consideration. Maybe we can do something together. Having read them, if you still want to go ahead first with "WHERE THE LION FEEDS", you know I love that one, too, and I can only remind you that I am the best producer in England!

Have a wonderful trip. You were obviously very relaxed and enjoying yourself and a few days of that cannot do anyone any harm.

All the best to Lonnie and yourself.

Yours sincerely,

Michael Klinger